Councils get on the electric journey to a net zero future

The Central NSW Joint Organisation is excited to announce an event that highlights its members' commitment to sustainability and environmental responsibility.

On 1 November, the Central NSW Joint Organisation is hosting a Fleet Transition Day for its councils, featuring a diverse range of electric vehicles, including passenger cars, utes, trucks and even electric mowers. The councils will hear case studies from those who are already on the fleet transition journey, along with presentations relating to Government policy, hydrogen, electric charging infrastructure, fleet and technology options.

The event will complement the development of councils' fleet transition plans to assist in the transition to a net zero future.

This event, made possible with the support of the NSW Office of Energy and Climate Change and Parkes Shire Council, demonstrates the dedication of councils in Central NSW to reduce their carbon footprint and lead the way in sustainable transportation solutions.

"We are proud to be hosting this important initiative as part of our commitment to a sustainable future by showcasing a wide range of electric vehicles, demonstrating our dedication to environmentally responsible choices in transportation", said Cr Kevin Beatty, Chair of Central NSW Joint Organisation.

"Members are pleased to be supported by our Joint Organisation who continually leads initiatives that empower councils to help meet the region's net zero aspirations", said Cr Beatty.
